

Terms and Conditions for Exhibition Proposals to Artizan Gallery

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

The following terms and conditions apply if you submit an exhibition proposal to Artizan Gallery. By submitting an exhibition proposal to Artizan Gallery, you agree with and accept the terms and conditions set out here.

Selection

Artizan Gallery does not guarantee to accept any exhibition proposal made to them. When considering a proposal, we will think about the relevance to our calendar, audience and commercial market.

Producers

If you submit your proposal as a "Producer" we acknowledge your limited claim to the intellectual property outlined therein. We will not identically replicate your idea as it appears within the scope of the proposal but do not accept any claims of infringement for exhibition content similar in nature due to the limited protections associated with such a claim.

If your proposal is accepted for consideration, Artizan Gallery will commence a process by which a full agreement can be reached to determine the relationship between ourselves as host and you as producer. A proposal is not accepted until full terms for an exhibition have been outlined and agreed relationship has been determined.

Exhibitors

If you submit your proposal as an "Exhibitor" you acknowledge that you make no claim to the ideas outlined within your submission and release all control to any involvement with the proposal. Due to the open selection process we operate for all themed calls we cannot guarantee your selection for an exhibition theme you propose.

Contributors

If you submit your proposal as an "Exhibitor" you acknowledge that you make no claim to the ideas outlined within your submission and release all control to any involvement with the proposal.
